With the hope of nurturing the young teacher trainees with the lessons of empathy and care, an honesty shop functions in the college during the Christmas week. The main idea behind this is that the students are provided with free access to the items in the shop and they can leave behind the money of the item in a box. Nobody is there to monitor the engagements. But the teacher trainees with their sincere generosity lives the programme in the atmost suitable way. The fund thus collected is used as as source of income for 'CARE and SHARE'
