Sunil has developed tools and questionnaires that can be used by an educationist or a learned counsellor to analyse physical and psychological variables among school children. I think it is the need of the hour and the study should be made popular among the educationists and policy makers. Rules should be formulated accordingly and thorough monitoring is needed. I hope this book will light up the minds of many. Being conscious about our set backs will surely lead us forward.

I wholeheartedly recommend this book for your reading.
