Functions of Language

According to Geoffery Leech (1974), there are five main functions of language.

- ✓ Informational (to convey information)
- ✓ Expressive (to express emotions)
- ✓ Directive (to give orders, commands)
- ✓ Aesthetic (to create artistic effect)
- ✓ Phatic (to maintain social bonds)
Purr words. Democratic, freedom, human rights

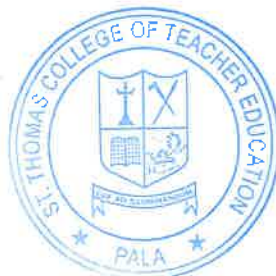

LAC part 2

THE PHATIC FUNCTION

- The only purpose of such a function is to maintain social relationships, and to begin, or continue the conversation.
- E.g. A well-known example from British culture is a small talk about the weather.

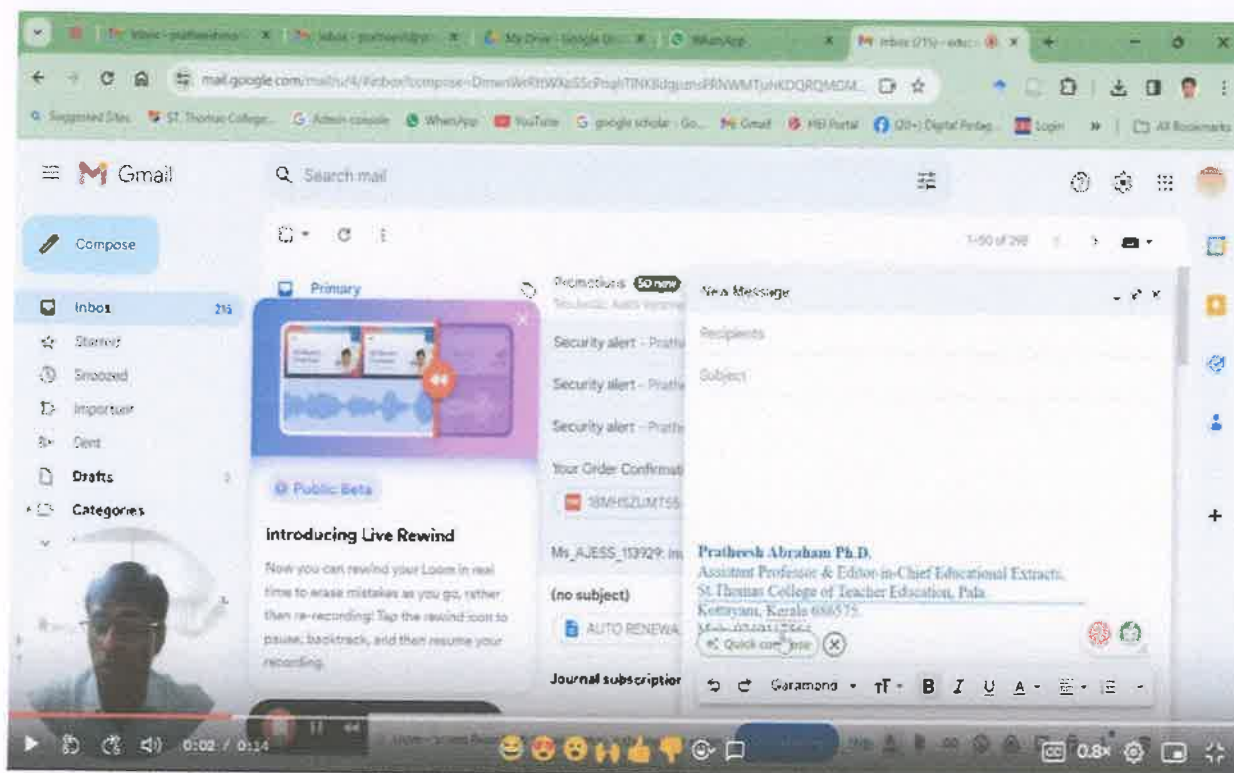

Such a kind of talk does not provide us with any necessary information.

The real reason for such a talk is not our interest, but simply our desire to talk.
